LOCAL.

TRAIN left Calgary on time this morning.

THURSDAY's train arrived at 11:40 p. m., four hours and forty minutes late.

ELEAZAR LABOUCAN, trader, of Battle river is in town, with a large lot of fur for sale.

M. McCauley is pressing a large quantity of hay for local sale or shipment as the market warrants.

P. PRUDEN, S. Villeneuve and Mrs. W. F. Gairdner left for Lac la Biche on Thursday.

A CAR load of furniture arrived for W. H. McMahon, South Edmonton, on Monday's train.

P. PRUDEN, trader, of Lac la Biche, is about to remove to the Sturgeon mill, in which he has an interest, to reside.

A DELEGATION of land prospectors from Schuyler, Nebraska, is expected at Olds on March 1st, in charge of Mr. Gadsden.

FRASER & Co's mill has not been grinding this week owing to an accident to the machinery. A large amount of wheat is in the mill.

F. G. FAQUIER, secretary of the Northwest government World's fair commission, visited Edmonton on Thursday's train. He went south on Friday.

J. G. JESSUP of the lands department arrived on Thursday's train, to take a position in the Edmonton land office.

THOS. ANDERSON, land agent informs the BULLETIN that he did not seize Mr. Parrish's hay in South Edmonton.

NEIL GALBRAITH, who lives a few miles north of town, had his left foot amputated on Thursday last at St. Albert hospital by Drs. Tofield and Benoit.

J. R. BRENTON is erecting an ice house at the lower ferry landing, with a capacity of 300 tons, with a cool room 10x12 for storage of butter, meat, eggs and other perishable articles.

THE friends of Mrs. Lang of Fort Saskatchewan will be glad to know that having recently undergone an operation in St. Boniface hospital, she is recovering rapidly.

C. W. MATHERS, artist for Boone & May in their Edmonton studio for the past season, has purchased the firm's business here and will open out under his own name on March 10th.

G. GOODALL, recently completed a well for K. A. McLeod, to be used to furnish water to the boiler of the planing mill which Mr. McLeod will erect in spring just north of the skating rink on Namayo avenue. The well is 36 feet deep, 8 feet in diameter and had twelve feet of water at last accounts, with the water still rising.

A BAPTIST church was organized in Edmonton on Sunday, February 19th, by Rev. Mr. Mellick, general superintendent of Baptist missions in the Northwest. The name will be the First Baptist church, of Edmonton. There is at present a membership of 19. The first regular service will be held on Monday, March 19th, in Robertson's hall, by Rev. A. McDonald, at present of Grafton, North Dakota, who will be pastor of the church.

A SMOKING concert was given by the men of "G" division N. W. M. Police, in the mess room at Fort Saskatchewan on Thursday evening, February 23rd. There was a very large attendance from Fort Saskatchewan and surroundings and from Clover Bar and Edmonton as well. Insp. Chalmers was chairman, with Dr. Wilson and C. H. Connors vice chairmen. The programme was filled by Messrs. H. Anthony, J. R. Michael, Dr. Goodwin, A. H. Rumball, W. Price, W. Baxter and J. Mansfield in their usual excellent style. M. Cullin gave several clog dances. The concert broke up about 2 a. m. on Tuesday morning.

SEVERAL issues ago the BULLETIN stated that when the main line train was late reaching Calgary the mail for Edmonton did not come through; and asked that the mail for Edmonton be made up on the train, so that if the trains made connection the mail would come through. The postmaster at Calgary writes that the mails always do come through when the trains connect and the postoffice inspector writes that the mails are sorted for Edmonton on the train. The BULLETIN is glad that it was mistaken—if it was—but the information as to the mails failing to connect was received on what was considered very good authority.

MESSRS. E. D. Green and E. F. Studebaker of Genesee, Idaho, and Palouse, Washington, respectively, arrived on Monday's train to look up land. They came by way of Seattle, and the C. P. R. short line to the Mission on the Fraser, as the short summer route by way of the Arrow lakes and Revelstoke is not open in the winter. The snow was deeper at Palouse when they left than it is at Edmonton and the weather had been very severe, 20 below zero, with wind blowing and snow drifting. Even after the weather moderated there it was not as mild as it has been since their arrival in Edmonton. The movement of people from Palouse to Edmonton is exciting considerable interest there and of course a great deal of opposition. Every effort is being made to decry the Edmonton district and to prevent people from removing to it. Messrs. Greene and Studebaker are both well pleased with this district as far as they have seen it and propose to invest in land.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FRANK OLIVER, — PROPRIETOR.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, FEBRUARY 27, 1893

Free Press, Ottawa telegram: "The fact that the Canadian government are still admitting settlers' cattle into the Canadian Northwest without quarantine having come to the knowledge of McMillan, of Huron, the latter is going to have the matter ventilated in parliament to see what the government have to say to the charge that they are sacrificing the farmers' interests in order to encourage a few settlers to cross over from the Western States into the Territories. The admission of these settlers' cattle without quarantine it is alleged first led to Great Britain placing the embargo on Canadian cattle landing in England." Some kind friend should put a string upon Mr. McMillan of Huron and lead him away to a quiet place where he would not be liable to do harm to himself or others. If the exclusion of immigrants' cattle—for that is what a quarantine would amount to—would be likely to prevent the British markets from being closed to Canadian live cattle there might be some excuse for Mr. McMillan's proposition. But now that this market has been closed it would be pure idiocy to strike ourselves such a knock down blow as this would be at this particular time, by locking the stable after the steels were stolen, as Mr. McMillan proposes. The belittling of the movement of settlers from the Western States to the Northwest, as appears to be done, is as little to the credit either of Mr. McMillan's patriotism or common sense as it is to his regard for facts.

The new C. P. R. folder, with map of the Northwest and information to settlers, has been received. The following paragraph relating to the Edmonton district is a concise statement of the most important points regarding this district as a field for settlement: "Although this stretch of country in the upper valley of the North Saskatchewan is only opened up, settlement has already made considerable progress, and enough has been done to show the grand results which can be reached. At St. Albert and Sturgeon river districts, outside of Edmonton, and in the settlement around Red Deer, crops have been produced, which equal in quality and yield the best figures ever reached in any portion of this continent. Thirty to forty bushels of wheat is the common report, and in other grains and root crops correspondingly large yields can be secured. But outside of grain raising the advantages in mixed farming are such as can be met with in few if any other districts. The settler has a growth unbounded, provided by nature, and containing a succulence and nutrition, such as is not possessed by the finest cultivated hay in the Atlantic slopes of the continent. Brush and timber are to be found in every locality, furnishing excellent winter shelter for live stock, and fuel for the settler, if he wishes to burn wood. In this matter he has a valuable alternative, for coal is abundant all along the banks of the North Saskatchewan, and is now dug out of the river banks with the most primitive appliances, and sold in the town of Edmonton at the low figure of $2.50 a load, which means as much as a team can haul on a wagon. In the two elements of fuel and pure water, the North Saskatchewan valley has undoubtedly greater advantages than any rich agricultural district on the continent of North America. The farmer near the river at Edmonton can cut down logs for his own buildings or he can dig the coal for his own use.

An excellent lithographed map of the subdivision of the Lang estate, Fort Saskatchewan town site has been brought out by F. Fraser Tims, agent for the estate. It is very well got up in all particulars. The lots facing on the street which divides the estate from the mounted police reserve, which is the present business street of the town are 50x150. Along the Saskatchewan river large villa lots are laid out, but in the greater part of the survey the lots are 32x100. A number have already been sold, by Mr. Tims, who will push the town to the front with all speed. Fort Saskatchewan has been the headquarters of the mounted police in this district ever since 1875 and is now the centre of a large new settlement, which will be greatly increased during the coming season. There are a number of good openings at Fort Saskatchewan for the establishment of business of various kinds.

Mrs. Herchmer, wife of the late Colonel Herchmer, assistant commissioner of the mounted police, will petition the government for a grant of one month's salary in every year served by her husband. Deceased served the government in various capacities for twenty-eight years, fourteen of which were spent in the police. The petition recites that he was a faithful servant of the government, and his bravery at Cut Knife Hill is mentioned in the dispatches. At the time of his decease Herchmer was earning $1,400 per year. The petition is endorsed by many M. P.'s.

The new Cunard line steamship, Lucania was launched in the Clyde on Thursday, February, 2nd.

EDMONTON WINTER WEATHER.

In view of the reports that are being circulated in those sections of the United States from whence people are removing to this district, regarding the winter weather here, the following testimony from men who have come from those districts, as contained in the following written to a resident of Palouse, which has been secured for publication, is of interest:

EDMONTON, ALBERTA, February 24th, 1893.

E. LEWIS.

SIR:—This has been the coldest winter that has ever known here. But the wind does not blow hard. The coldest days are not as disagreeable as they are in the Palouse country. Signed by the following Washington men: Joseph K. Hay, Colfax, Washington, William Fitzpatrick, Colfax, Washington, Fred L. Harrison, Spokane, Washington, George Price, Palouse, Washington, T. B. Bell, Oakesdale, Washington, Wm. Rennie, Palouse city, Washington, Jas. McNaughton, North Dakota, Wm. Tarpley, Tekoa, Washington, W. P. Sims, Tekoa, Washington.

John R. Brenton of the Cross Woods farm near Edmonton says: I have been fifteen years in Manitoba and the Northwest, eleven years of which I have been at Edmonton. I came from the state of Kentucky. The climate at Edmonton is the finest I have ever lived in.

Thomas Bellamy says: "I have been in the Edmonton district two winters. For two weeks of this winter the weather was very cold but there was no wind. From very careful enquiry I am satisfied that this country has never had a real blizzard, and that such a thing as cattle freezing to death has never been known."

T. P. Lindlay, of Stony Plain, was born in Wisconsin and came from Spokane, Washington, in May last. Was first struck by the large amount of fertile land in this district, the abundance of good water, the luxuriance of the grass, the large amount of wild berries, the nearness and abundance of material for building and fencing purposes necessary to people in a new country. Worked at taking out saw logs for Lamoureux mill every day except three during the present winter and suffered no inconvenience from the cold. Finds the complete absence of the tax collector a very favorable feature of this country.

FURS.

The following sales of fur have been made at Edmonton within the week. At Norris & Carey's: B. Pruden, Lac la Biche, $480 to J. Walsh; A. Ladouceur, Lac la Biche, $415 to J. Walsh; J. Ladouceur, Lac la Biche, $207 to J. Walsh; A. Hamelin, Lac la Biche, $380 to T. Hanover; D. Desjarlais, Lesser Slave lake, $650 to J. Walsh. At J. A. McDougall's: Colin Johnston, Athabasca Landing, $202 to J. Walsh. At J. Cameron's: J. Walsh purchased one lot at $57.50 and T. Hanover one lot at $201, both the property of Mr. Cameron. At present there are the following buyers at Edmonton: G. J. Kinnaird, for the H. B. Co., R. Second, W. B. Stennett, Edmonton, Laney Hibbard, T. Hanover and J. Walsh, Winnipeg. The cause of the meeting of such a large number of buyers at once is partly the fact that at this season traders come in from outside points, for sorting up supplies for spring trade, and always bring a small amount of fur with them to purchase what they require. It is also partly because of the sharp advance of fur prices at the London fur sales which took place on January 27th. Bear advanced 15 per cent over the price at the November sales, mink 35 per cent, martin 20 per cent, red fox 10 per cent, grey fox 20 per cent, skunk 25 per cent, wolf was the same as in November. Beaver was 71 per cent higher than in June last and muskrat 10 per cent higher than in June. Neither of these furs were offered at the November sales. Otter, fisher, lynx, wolverine, silver fox and cross fox were not offered at the January sale. The amount of fur offered was small, which helped to raise the prices. It is expected that the March sales will not give as high prices as there will be large offerings then. The catch of fur generally has been light this winter in this district. Foxes and mink are fairly numerous and marten are said to be very numerous in the mountains. Lynx are increasing rapidly and will be numerous next year. There are very few bears, wolves or wolverines. Beaver is decreasing gradually, the animals being killed for both food and fur at all ages and in all seasons. They will soon be practically extinct. On Peace river within the past 25 years beaver have decreased 70 per cent. The Indians are well off everywhere this winter as there are plenty of rabbits, and there will likely be a good fur trade in the spring, as many of the Indians who are generally compelled to come to the traders for food during the winter are now able to remain out hunting all winter.

The method in which furs are bought from the traders by the fur buyers is worthy of mention. The trader on coming to town stores his fur with some of the merchants, generally the one to whom he owes the largest bill—and notifies the fur buyers that his fur is for sale. Each buyer then visits the warehouse singly and sorts the fur over privately, making up his mind what the whole lot is worth. After all the buyers have examined the fur, each one makes out a tender in a lump sum and hands it sealed to the trader who examines them, hands them back, and turns over the fur to the buyer who made the highest bid. Of course the trader always as a reserve bid for himself to protect him against possible combinations amongst the buyers. The trader does not know upon what basis the buyer fixed the price he offered and the buyers do not—or are not supposed to—know each others bids.
